lowing are the sulfeut points: The people must come up with the Constitution and the flag in their hands, and say this Union must be preserved; but we will not spill our blood to carry out the principles of any sectional party. It has been charged by the Republican party that slavery caused this war, and that slavery must be extinguished before we can have peace or quiet in the United States under our present Constitution. In July, 1861, both Houses of Congress, by a concurrent resolution, resolved that the war was brought about by a sectional party South without justifiable cause; that we waged it the poor have not been bribed by the on our part to maintain the Constitution, preserve the Union, restore peace, and to prolect each State.
